VOTING MACHINES WILL BE TESTED

Election Committee of Common Council Will Have a Demonstration Made Shortly — Aldermen Have a Busy Session Tuesday Night.

Alderman Ryan, of the Aldermanic election committee, reported that the committee had met with a representative of a voting machine company, and that the company within two weeks' time would stage a demonstration of the working of the voting machine which would be open to the council and citizens of the city in general.

Mayor Crane sent in his first veto when he disapproved the resolution adopted at the last meeting increasing the salary of Miss Jeanette Costello, clerk of the city court, $10 a month. The mayor said that the salary had been fixed at $1,020 and that no provision had been made in the budget to permit an increase, and that no reason had been shown as to why the increase was justified. On motion of Alderman Martin, the matter was referred to the finance, ways and means committee.

The aldermen received an invitation to attend the annual donation to the Rev. A. L. Hughes of Foxhall avenue on April 19.

The fire board sent in a communication regarding Alderman Macholdt's resolution at the last meeting requesting that a fire alarm box be placed at the corner of Mary's avenue and Andrew street, stating that the matter would have consideration.

Plenty of Resolutions.

The following resolutions were introduced:

Alderman Belchert, that board of public works repair Smith avenue, near Cornell street; build a sanitary sewer in Manor avenue; repair Ten Broeck, Tremper and Wiltwyck avenues, which were all referred to the board of public works.

Alderman Buchholtz, that an arc light be placed on Greenkill avenue near Teller & Tappen's coal yard; that incandescent light at Franklin and Furnace streets be replaced with an arc; that sidewalks in front of Teller & Tappen's coal yard on Greenkill avenue be relaid, which were all referred to public works board.

Alderman Mann, that tree be removed at corner of Abeel and Hone streets, referred to board of public works.

Alderman Joy, that arc light is needed at Murray and Chambers streets; that Ann street be repaired, which were referred to board of public works. Alderman Joy said that there were streets in the Sixth ward that had not had anything done to them in ten years.

Aldermen Want To Know.

Alderman Martin introduced a resolution calling on the board of public works when it has completed its investigation as to who ordered the blue stone for the uncompleted Albany avenue arch report their findings to the common council as the public was entitled to know who did order the stone. The resolution was carried.

Alderman Ryan, that retaining wall on DuFlon street be rebuilt, and drain pipe in front of 373 Abeel street be cleaned, which were referred to public works board.

Alderman Martin—That sidewalks at Washington avenue and North Front street be relaid near Bethany Chapel as city had changed grade of street; that catch basin be built on Washington avenue, near Taylor street; that an incandescent light be placed on Van Deusen avenue; that holes in pavement at Washington avenue and North Front street be repaired; that incandescent light be installed near 288 Washington avenue; that the roadway adjoining the Washington avenue viaduct be cleaned; that part of the retaining wall along the Tannery brook be rebuilt and the brook cleaned; that police board report to council any radical changes contemplated in police vacation schedule and the reasons therefor. All were referred to the board of public works except the last which was referred to the police board.

Alderman Williams, that holes in Hanratty street be filled, to board of public works.

Alderman Keating, that sewer on Yeoman street be repaired and that something be done towards repairing the street. To board of public works.

Alderman Kullman, that McEntee street needed repairs and same be done. To board of public works.

Alderman Cashman, that conduit pipe at Foxhall and Highland avenues be removed; that Hemlock avenue be placed in passable condition. To public works board.

To Print Celebration Proceedings.

Alderman Martin offered a resolution that $150 be appropriated to print the proceedings of the city's fiftieth anniversary celebration which was unanimously adopted.

Free Taxes.

Alderman Martin called up his resolution which calls for free taxes on all buildings to be erected for housing purposes within the next five years, which had been referred to the corporation counsel, and asked that the council go on record as approving the plan of tax exemption to create a building boom.

Alderman Cashman favored the plan, but did not care to vote on the question until the question of whether it could be legally done was decided, and he amended the resolution to read that it be left open until the corporation counsel had had an opportunity to make a report as to whether the council could legally adopt an ordinance calling for tax exemption for a period of five years. The amendment was adopted.

Corporation Counsel Walter N. Gill, who was present, stated that he would file a report and draft a tentative ordinance as quickly as possible, but doubted if it would be possible to have it ready before the next meeting owing to considerable other work before him.

Other matters taken up will be found elsewhere.

The council then adjourned.

SAVE-install ARCOLA this month — NOW

TODAY, do this one little thing that costs nothing. Pick up the telephone, call your Steamfitter or Plumber and say: "What is the price of ARCOLA with an American Radiator in each room in my house, installed NOW?"

Remember to say, "installed NOW." The NOW is important. The diagram at the top of the page shows why.

The crowd waits until it is cold in the Fall before installing heating equipment; then everybody wants his ARCOLA installed at the same time. You save yourself time, worry and money if you order in the Spring. ARCOLA costs less this month, NOW, than ever before in its history.

Your Steamfitter is waiting for that Telephone Call

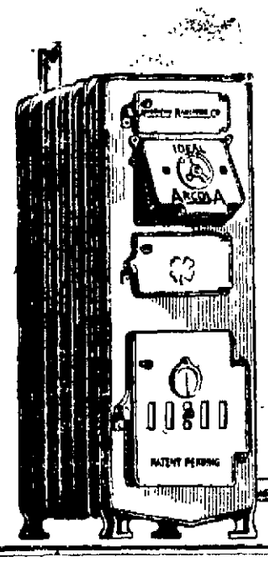

Don't hesitate for fear of wasting your Steamfitter's time. He has much more time NOW than he will have next Fall when the rush season starts in. He is waiting for your telephone call; waiting to show you these three great ARCOLA advantages:

1. ARCOLA, installed in one room, is connected by pipes to an American Radiator in every other room. No more cold rooms; no spotty heat.
2. ARCOLA gives the same healthful radiator warmth that florists have in their greenhouses. Dry hot air is bad for flowers and families too.
3. ARCOLA does pay for itself in the fuel it saves. Thousands of owners have proved it.

DAY TO TRY AND DRY UP NORTHERN BORDER

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, April 5.—Bootlegging along the New York-Canadian border is regarded by federal prohibition officers as one of the gravest problems confronting the dry law enforcement officials, and immediate steps are to be taken to deal with it.

Ralph A. Day, state director, has returned from Buffalo where he has been investigating and after a conference with E. O. Yellowley, chief of the staff of general prohibition agents, here from Washington, declared at least fifty men will be sent to the border soon.

To aid them in their work, the prohibition department will put into commission at once about ten high speed automobiles and a fleet of swift motor launches. Later it is said, an airplane squadron may be added.

MORE BUSYBODIES

Crank "uplifters" have exceeded evious records in the Knight mental ficiency bill which was passed in e closing hours of the legislature. hose vicious provisions have created much opposition that Governor ller has fixed Friday morning of is week for a public hearing for its ponsors and those who oppose the ll.

The most vicious feature is the unmited power which the bill would estow on any busybody who desired cause the arrest of another person apparently" defective mentally. Proedings to determine mentality must ow be taken in the supreme or county court. Under the Knight bill it ill be possible to lay information efore any magistrate for the arrest f anybody whom the informant alges to be less than "normal." Without medical examination, the magistrate shall commit such person to the are or custody of the local health officer, who forthwith must have an examination made. After an adjudication of mental deficiency, where a erson is not a delinquent under sixteen years of age, commitment can e made only to a state institution or o the guardianship of a relative or uch other person or corporation as he judge may direct.

Is the Knight bill necessary? That s the only question which Governor Miller should consider. The greatest danger in the bill lies in the unlimited power it gives to professional busybodies whose passion for reform has already warped their own mentality o such an extent that in their efforts to compel human perfection by law they have become dangerous cranks who are a menace to society.

The state cares for its criminal insane at the Matteawan asylum or similar institutions. For those charged with crime who are not insane but whose mentality is deficient, the state has provided the institution for mental delinquents at Napanoch. When the mental defective is convicted of crime the law says he is a mental delinquent, and nobody will dispute the wisdom of segregating those of deficient mentality from those who are insane. For those who are sane and become criminals, a variety of institutions is provided. Institutions also are provided, both public and private, for those who are insane but not criminal.

New York state also provides institutions for those who are merely defective mentally, and likewise it has provided, in the existing mental deficiency law, sufficient machinery to place such defectives in the proper institutions. These laws are administered by officials who are responsible to the people. They have worked successfully in Ulster county and no need of broadened powers has been shown here. What is true of Ulster probably is true of the rest of the state.

Undoubtedly the study of mental defectives leads the investigator to discover a large number of people who are defective when measured by the standard he uses in passing judgment. According to some investigators, one-half of the population is composed of people who are mentally defective. Are all of these defectives to be so stigmatized by judicial proceedings? Since institutional accommodation for them is totally inadequate, shall one-half of the people become guardians of the other half?

The great trouble with the professional "uplifter" is that he overlooks the machinery at hand but insists on something new, regardless of cost or consequences or results. The impractical nature of his mind apparent from a study of the Knight bill. Existing laws, no matter how perfect, are disregard in the craving for a new sensation. Alcoholic excess never inflicted upon its votaries stronger appetite than the professional reformer exhibits. The reason he demands the Knight bill is not because of any failure by public officials to perform their duty properly under the existing mental deficiency law but because honest and conscientious public officials have proved stronger than the insistent demands of the busybodies.

The average public may be mentally deficient but it still has the power of expression on public questions, particularly when they jeopardize liberty as the Knight bill would do. And a large part of the average public will agree with Bird S. Coler, who in his fight against the bill says: "Many mental defectives are able to do manual work and do it very well, and if this law is enacted any corporation or person can have indentured to it or him, able-bodied, industrious men and women, able to do housework, farming work and simple trades, whose only misfortune is that they have a mind less than that of the average human being." Mr. Coler may use extravagant language, but the idea he presents is undeniably correct.

What do you want to know about Nature Subjects? Send any question of general interest to the Nature Notes Department of this paper, enclosing self-addressed and stamped envelope for reply.

Can You Answer These Questions?

1. What do crabs eat?

2. What makes some nasturtium leaves have marks like a squirrel track in lighter color?

3. Please identify a bird that reaches Montana about May 15 and leaves September 15. Slightly smaller than bluebird, male rusty or bronze black, white wing bar; female grayish back. Nests on ground, about 5 eggs, pale greenish blue. A fine singer, often sings while hovering in the air. Feeds on insects, weed seeds, and some grain.

Answers in Tomorrow's Nature Notes.

Answers To Previous Questions.

1. To what age does the ordinary domestic goose live?

Reputed long-lived and cases are known where a given specimen is known to have lived between 50 and 60 years. Probably most individuals do not live anything like as long.

2. How do toads shed their tails?

The tail is not shed, but slowly dwindles and is absorbed by the body, to which it seems to supply a certain amount of nourishment. If the normal food supply is scanty, the tail disappears faster; but if plenty, and the temperature keeps low, the tail lasts longer. It is only useful while the tadpole is a swimmer, and as soon as it is gone, the toad is ready for land.

3. Does a cow have anything in her mouth when chewing her cud?

Certainly. Cud chewing originally was necessary to ruminant animals because of their feeding habit in the wild state, cropping a meal of grass or herbage in a hurry where grazing was good, and then retiring to a safe spot to lie down and chew up the meal at leisure. The stomach of such animals is specially adapted to this habit, with an extra storage cavity for the unchewed food, and of course the cow keeps her organization even when she need not now travel distances between feeding spots and hours. The chewed cud passes into the true stomach after being well mixed with saliva, and is then digested.

CLEVELAND SIX

Lowest Priced Six Cylinder Sedan

IN the intense effort of manufacturers to reduce closed car prices, the Cleveland Automobile Company with its impressive sedan has fairly outstripped competitors.

This virile and superbly luxurious six costs only $400 more than the Cleveland touring car. This reduction constitutes an amazing achievement.

The average difference, as found by comparing touring car and sedan prices of the 52 leading manufacturers of 5-passenger cars is $754, almost double the Cleveland margin. Only two small fours have a difference as low as $400.

No other real sedan with a six-cylinder motor is priced as low as the Cleveland.

It Is a Genuine Sedan—Not a Compromise

The body is Fisher-built and is comparable in size, finish and luxurious appointment to sedans costing $700 to $900 more.

It is as substantial and solid in its construction as it looks.

It is as windproof and rainproof as the highest priced sedans built.

It will remain firm and free from leaks and rattles during many years of luxurious and satisfying service.

It embodies all the features which the experience of the entire industry shows are essential in a fine closed car.

It is not an experiment in which the buyer takes all the risk.

Mounted upon the highly developed Cleveland Six chassis with its powerful, economical and silent over-head-valve motor it is

PLAN SCRAPPING OF BATTLESHIPS

By Telegraph to The Freeman

Washington, April 5.—Details of the plans for scrapping the battleships condemned by the Washington conference are nearing completion by a special board of naval officers, it was learned at the navy department today.

The task undertaken by these officers is the largest of its kind in the country's history. In its proportions, it far outranges the experience of American industry, according to experts. Actually, there are today no plants in the country equipped for such a job on short notice. There are ship-scrapping organizations now in operation but only a very small number do this work on anything but a small basis.

It is estimated that ships having a total of 800,000 tons displacement must be reduced to so much metallic junk. In any case the job will call forth a considerable organization of technical skill and skilled labor. Congress may be called on eventually to authorize the creation of the machine which may have to be set up. Less elaborate schemes also are part of the board's consideration, and may be adopted.

LECTURE ON JOHN BURROUGHS AT HIGH SCHOOL FRIDAY

Tickets are now on sale for the illustrated lecture, "With John Burroughs in His Favorite Haunts" to be given at the High School Auditorium on Wednesday evening, April 12th, under the auspices of the Burroughs Junior Audubon Society.

Dr. G. Clyde Fisher of the educational department of the American Museum of Natural History, New York City, who presents this lecture, has won an enviable reputation as a public speaker. The slides he used are wonderfully colored and present many phases of outdoor life.

Since the Audubon Society is not trying to raise funds the price of tickets is unusually low.

GRAFTON'S BROTHER IN DARK AS TO MARRIAGES

By Telegraph to The Freeman

Pittsburgh, April 5.—Joseph Donald Grafton, central figure in a double romance, is not well known here. According to his brother, David Grafton sales agent for a furniture manufacturer, Joseph has been out of touch with his family here.

"All I know about my brother's matrimonial affairs is what I saw in the morning papers," said David Grafton. "I saw him in New York last fall and that is the last I have seen of him. The reports that my father is a millionaire are very flattering, but somewhat exaggerated."

PASTOR DENSEL FINED $500 IN CRIMINAL ACTION

The Rev. Cornelius Densel, former pastor of the New Netherlands Reformed Church, Passaic, who ran away in November, 1920, with Miss Trina Hannenberg, member of the choir and church sewing circle, but returned a few weeks later to his wife and eight children, was fined $500 Thursday by Judge Charles F. Lynch in federal court at Newark for violation of the Mann act. The criminal action against the clergyman was an outgrowth of a civil suit begun by the girl and her parents in which the Rev. Densel sold his home to effect a settlement of $10,000.

Plans To Build New Line.

By Telegraph to The Freeman

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

GOOD-BYE SPRING

"Good-bye, Spring, I must be going," said the blue Hepatica flower.

"Good-bye, dear little Hepatica," said the Spring.

Now the Spring was dressed in all her best. Oh, she was most gorgeous.

She wore a cap of beautiful olive green leaves, so fresh and pretty and new, and her hat was of many spring flowers. It was a lovely hat.

Her skirt was of soft green moss with new ferns decorating it, such dear little delicate ferns.

Her shoes were of green moss and her shoe laces were of lovely tall green grasses.

Her waist was of spring blossoms and was so pretty, and had sprinkled over her a perfume which all of the spring flowers and shrubs and trees and grass had given to her as a gift from all of them.

"I hate to see you go," said Spring, "but I know you must be on your way. This is the time for you to finish your blossoming or flowering."

"Yes," said the blue Hepatica flower, "I have been about really ever since December. I was under the snow, you know, and my fuzzy stem kept me warm just as people will wrap their furs about their necks to keep themselves warm.

"I Must Follow You."

"And though I was but a bud I kept warm and the snow protected me too."

"Some of your family have different names," said Spring, "but I like to call you Hepatica best."

"It is my favorite name of all I have," said the blue Hepatica flower. "Sometimes we're called Liverwort, and sometimes we're called Squirrel Cups, and sometimes we're just known as Hepaticas, which is my favorite name as I've said.

"Some of us wear blue and some of us wear lavender. Some of us wear white, and some of us wear pale pinks, and some of us have a different style of grouping ourselves together. We don't dress just the same, and we don't care if we're all in Hepatica style.

"By that I mean we don't care if we all do just as the other does. Real Hepatica style, among the Hepatica flowers, means to dress differently and as we please and to look as lovely as each one of us can.

"That is what we try to do."

"And that is what you really do," said Spring.

"Thank you, dear Spring," said the Blue Hepatica.

"Some of us wear perfume and some of us don't," said the blue Hepatica. "There is no special rule about that either.

"It doesn't make any difference whether we wear blue, or pink, or white, or lavender, whether we add perfume or not. It is just as our own little group feels like doing.

"But the same family wears perfume year after year.

"You see my mother plant wore perfume and I thought it was so lovely that I wanted to wear it too. That is always the way with the Hepatica flowers.

"We do what our mothers have done, and if they have used perfume, so do we. It is natural that we should for we like our mothers' perfume, and we wanted to have some of it when we grew up.

"Yes, dear Spring, I must go."

"And before long I must follow you," said Spring. "Summer is coming along you know."

"But," said the blue Hepatica, lifting its little star-like petals up and gazing at Spring, "I'll come and see you again next year if you want me."

"Darling little blue Hepatica, Spring wouldn't be happy if you didn't come to the edges of the woods to smile at her and to say:

"'Here I am, dear Spring.' Spring really wouldn't be Spring without you."

"Blue Hepatica will open her eyes to greet you next year, Spring. Good-bye, dear Spring. Good-bye, lovely world all dressed in your new clothes."

And the warmer breezes of summer came along and whispered:

"Blue Hepatica was right, Good-bye Spring!"

EASTER DISHES

At Easter-time many housewives prepare the time honored dishes such as:

Easter Egg Rolls.—Scald and cool one-fourth of a cupful of milk, add one yeast cake broken in bits, mix well and add a cupful of scalded and cooled milk. Stir in two cupfuls of flour, beat well and set away in a warm place until light. Add the yolks of two eggs, half a teaspoonful of salt, half a teaspoonful of sugar, one-fourth of a cupful of melted butter and flour enough to make a dough to be kneaded. Knead until smooth. Cover and set aside to become light. Shape in small balls, cover on a board until double its bulk. Take a ball, press a cavity with the thumb and set into this half a teaspoonful of jelly; work the dough over the opening to enclose the jelly and have it just under the top crust. The roll should be shaped like an egg; let rise to double its bulk. Bake about twenty minutes in a hot oven.

Bavarian Easter Cake.—Cream one cupful of butter with one and one-half cupfuls of sugar; add the yolks of seven eggs, beaten until lemon colored and thick, alternately with three to three and one-half cupfuls of flour, stirring and beating well. Beat in the stiffly beaten whites of five eggs and one-half pound of Sultana raisins. Grease one or more deep layer cake plates, spread them with the batter, which should be about an inch thick; dot over the top with small comfits and bake.

White and Gold Bavaroise.—Soak three-quarters of a package of gelatin in one cupful of cold water, add three cupfuls of hot milk, add two cupfuls of sugar mixed with the grated yellow rind of two lemons, then stir in the yolks of four eggs, beaten stiff and stirred into one pint of cream. Mix all well and let stand until cool. Beat with a large Dover egg beater until the whole is like yellow cream. A drop or two of saffron tied in a cloth, dipped in hot water and squeezed from the cloth, will deepen the tint if desired. Pour into a ring mold and when served fill the center with whipped cream.

NUXATED IRON
It is the organic iron in your blood that takes up oxygen from your lungs. This oxygenated organic iron unites with your digested food as it is absorbed into your blood, like fire unites with coal or wood, and by so doing it creates tremendous power and energy. Without organic iron in your blood your food merely passes through your body without doing you any good.
Organic iron, like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples may be had from any druggist under the name of "Nuxated Iron".
Over four million people are using Nuxated Iron annually, their experience proving that it increases the strength and endurance of the weak, nervous, run-down people, in many cases, in two weeks' time.
If you want that virile force, that stamina and strength so necessary to great success in practically every undertaking in life, you owe it to yourself to commence trying Nuxated Iron today.

IRISH REBELS GROW STRONGER

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Dublin, April 5.—The warfare of the Republicans (the mutineers of the Irish Republican army), against the Irish Free State troops is assuming serious proportions. In addition to numerous ambush attacks against the Free Staters, a number of officers and men of the loyal legions have been arrested by the rebels.

It is reported that Richard Mulcahy, minister of defense in the Irish provisional government and former chief of staff of the I. R. A. is contemplating a general call to all citizens of the Irish Free State to arm themselves for the protection of their country against the rebels.

The mutineers are still seizing and secreting arms and ammunition in various parts of the country, especially in and around ports where the British army is shipping military stores back to England. The Irish provisional government is attempting to stop such seizures, but has met with little success.

It is reported from Cork that a considerable quantity of British ammunition was dumped into the sea to prevent seizure by the mutineers.

Physical and Mental Examination Also Proposed.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Concorn, N. H., April 5.—The issuance of marriage licenses in this state will be placed in the hands of the board of health and applicants will be compelled to pass mental and physical examinations, if the recommendation of Commissioner of Education E. L. Butterfield is accepted.

Butterfield was a speaker at a public hearing of the state divorce commission.

This recommendation followed characterization by other speakers of the New Hampshire divorce laws as the worst in the union. One out of every six marriages here results in a divorce, Bishop L. M. Parker said, and Butterfield believes the proposed examinations would eliminate many unsatisfactory marital alliances.

NOW—at house cleaning time—every woman is considering ways and means of cleaning up her home and keeping it spotless and bright the year through.

Housewives whose kitchen still possesses an old type, solid-fuel-burning stove know how hard it is to keep the kitchen presentable when fuel and ashes must be carried and smoke and soot escape into the room.

All the work and dirt and uncertainty of cooking is practically abolished by cooking with Gas.

The installation of a Gas Range in your kitchen this Spring will be a step forward in cleanliness, convenience and economy you never will regret.

NOT INTERESTED IN CITY ARCH

Alderman Macholdt's Resolution Led Alderman Cashman to Believe That "Some One Is Trying to Pass the Buck to the Aldermen."

Alderman Henry G. Macholdt of the Ninth ward was unable to attend the regular monthly meeting of the common council Tuesday evening, but he sent in a resolution which was read by City Clerk Doremus, who stated that the alderman from the Ninth ward desired some brother alderman to offer it for him. The resolution called attention to the uncompleted city welcome arch on Albany avenue, and called on the board of public works to demolish the arch and use the material in erecting the new store houses on Hasbrouck avenue, on the plot of ground recently purchased opposite the Lawton foundry.

Alderman Reichert of the Second ward said that he had a resolution covering practically the same ground.

Alderman Cashman of the Third ward thought that it looked as though "Some one is trying to pass the buck to the aldermen." He said that he did not see why the council should "do the thinking for the board of public works. They had brains enough, or ought to have, to do their own thinking."

"Was this council asked about the arch and where it should be erected when the work was started by the board of public works?" asked Alderman Cashman of President Dittus.

"It was not," replied the presiding officer.

"Then I move that the Macholdt resolution be tabled" said Alderman Cashman, and it was unanimously decided to do so.

Later on in the evening when the resolutions were read the one regarding the arch offered by Alderman Reichert was filed.

The aldermen believe that as the board of public works—that is last year's board—went ahead and erected arches without asking the council about it, the question of whether this year's board should tear down the arch started last year should be decided by the board.

Satins retain their suppleness washed this way, says Skinner

William Skinner & Sons
NEW YORK

Lever Bros. Co.,
Cambridge, Mass.

Gentlemen:

We had samples of our various silks laundered in Lux—Peau de Cygnes, Charmeuse satins, etc. Each sample was given the number of washings the average silk garment gets in a year.

We found that at the end of the washings none of the silks had stiffened and in no instance did the delicate threads fray or rough up. We noticed particularly that the Peau de Cygnes did not "pull" and that the satins retained their suppleness.

All the silks showed so few signs of wear that it was hard to believe that they had been washed so often. This we think is undoubtedly due to the fact that it is not only unnecessary to rub with Lux, but that the Lux lather is absolutely mild and pure.

These experiments have definitely proved to us that if water alone won't hurt a silk, Lux can't, and we are glad to give it an unqualified endorsement.

Very truly yours,

A PLAYGROUND IN SECOND WARD

Alderman Beichert Wants to Use Grounds of School No. 6 for That Purpose and Install Kingston Point Park Playground Apparatus.

The central part of the city is in need of a playground, or at least the Second ward is according to Alderman Beichert of that ward, and Tuesday evening at the common council session he introduced a resolution that the council appoint a committee to wait on the board of education and the board of public works regarding the using of the grounds of School No. 6 on O'Neil street this summer as a playground. The alderman believed that it would be a good idea to install the playground apparatus from Kingston Point Park on the school grounds.

Alderman Keating of the Fifth ward believe that the city should make some arrangement with the trolley road to have the playground apparatus left at the park for the use of children this summer.

It was stated, however, that the trolley road had served notice on the board of public works to remove all apparatus by April 10, and the board has done so.

After some further discussion President Dittus appointed Aldermen Beichert, Cashman and Van Wagenen as a committee to wait on the education board and the board of public works regarding the opening of a playground at School No. 6.

Balfour Not So Ready.

London, April 5. The British government is having a difficult time forcing honors upon A. J. Balfour, former premier and head of the British delegation at the Washington conference. Although Mr. Balfour recently consented to the acceptance of an earldom, the announcement of which was to come through the regular channels, it is learned today that he is now refusing and that Premier Lloyd-George is using friendly pressure to induce him to accept.

committee, it would be a hardship to require such a provision while the company was operating open cars.

Inspect Kingston Bridge Saturday.

Commissioner Von Etten called attention to the desirability of making an inspection of the Kingston bridge at the end of Washington avenue as soon as possible, and the board agreed to make such inspection on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. There was some discussion regarding the weight of loads now being carried over the bridge and comparison with loads of stone which had been carried over it in the days when the bluestone industry thrived.

Rondout Bridge Lighting Cost.

Commissioner Oppenheimer reported he had taken up the matter of lighting the Rondout Creek Bridge with Supervisor Elsworth, of the town of Esopus, who had learned that the cost would be $780 a year, of which the city of Kingston would have to pay one-half. The standards for lights, it was reported, had arrived.

Playground Apparatus in Storage.

Commissioner Van Etten reported that all the playground apparatus owned by the city had been removed from Kingston Point and was now in storage. The holes which had been excavated at the park for such apparatus would be filled in soon.

Pay Schick for Ceiling.

Commissioner Van Etten also reported that in blasting at the city quarry unusually heavy blasts had damaged the ceiling of Charles Schick, who had ascertained that it would cost $15 to repair it, and on Mr. Van Etten's motion Mr. Schick was reimbursed to that extent.

Postpone Action on Arch.

Mayor Crane said the Chamber of Commerce had sent a questionnaire to its members in regard to the uncompleted arch at the entrance of the city on Albany avenue and the ballots would all be returned by April 15. The board would then know the result of the vote of the Chamber of Commerce members which, however, would not be binding on anybody but would only express the sentiment of those members who voted.

Pine Grove Avenue at Night.

Mayor Crane also reported that the electric lights on the welcome arch at the entrance to the city on Wilbur avenue were not lighted at night because somebody kept breaking the globes. He did not know what to suggest because he never had heard of any way in which such globes could be protected.

Commissioner Van Etten suggested that an arrest and fine of $25 might prove a good protection, and said that somebody also was breaking globes of the lights on Pine Grove avenue. Mayor Crane asked whether the electric light company did not pay for all broken globes, and Corporation Counsel Gill said he presumed so because they supplied globes for lights of individual consumers. He thought a large number of the lights on Pine Grove avenue could easily be removed. Mayor Crane said he had not formed an opinion on these lights because he never had been on Pine Grove avenue at night.

Will Protect City's Bank.

Superintendent Darrow reported that somebody had been stealing sand from the city's sand bank. He, therefore, was having the lines run by the engineers to determine the city's boundaries on the lot and intended to have a fence erected to prevent further depredations.

Sending Out City Bills.

Mayor Crane called attention to bills for relaying curb on streets on which Willite had been laid under the previous administration. Although the bills had been contracted previous to this year, they had not been sent out, and there was some doubt as to whether property owners ever had been notified to relay their curb on the streets that had been Willited. Some property owners had relaid their curb through contractors they had employed and in all other cases the work had been done by the city at the expense of the property owners. Assistant Superintendent Mills, said the mayor, thought that some of the bills had been paid to the city but there was no record to show that bills had been paid and what bills had not been paid.

Members of the board owning property on streets which had been Willited said they had received notices to relay their curb and in some cases had employed contractors to do the work; in other cases the work had been done by the city but they had not received any bills for the same.

During the discussion that followed, a search was made of the minutes of the board in previous years to determine what notice in regard to relaying curb had been issued by the board.

It was also stated that the five-year guarantee made by the Willite Company in regard to Railroad and Albany avenues had expired.

In regard to repairing cracks in the Willite, Superintendent Darrow suggested cutting out the cracked parts and filling in with macadam.

City Clerk Doremus said all he knew in regard to notices to property owners was what he had heard. He knew that on Warren street, where he lived, the grade of the street had been changed and in that case property owners had been notified they would not be required to relay the curb. If Warren street had been built to grade at the time it was Willited, the city would have had to take off the steps of some houses. He had heard that toward the last no bills had been sent out.

Mr. Mills said that the city had reset a large amount of curbing and in other cases the property owners had had the work done by private contractors. In cases where the city had performed the work, he did not think that any owner had made payment to the city.

It was determined that a quantity of notices which had been found in one of the desks were copies of notices issued by the previous board and were not originals that had failed of being mailed.

The board decided to send out bills to property owners in cases where the city force had relaid their curbs.

Why Don't Plumbers Pay?

Commissioner Van Etten said the city had been spending a large amount of money for filling in streets that had been left in bad shape by the Kingston Gas & Electric Company and by the local plumbers when they made excavations. Plumbers made a charge against property owners for replacing the streets in good condition and he did not see why the city should not send bills to the plumbers.

Mayor Crane agreed that the repair situation was serious, and said that while the previous administration had done considerable permanent improvement, it had neglected repair work with the result that most streets were in need of repair.

City Asphalt Plant Suggested.

Commissioner Matthews asked why it would not be a good plan to investigate the desirability of the city owning its own asphalt plant for street repair work. Within the next ten years there would be a large amount of repair work to be done on the Willite pavement, and he believed most of this work would have to be done about the same time. After the experience of householders with freedom from dust which resulted from the use of an asphalt pavement, he did not believe the people of Kingston would ever consent to return to macadam pavement which furnished so much dust.

In addition to making repairs, said Mr. Matthews, the city undoubtedly would continue a program of permanent improvement, and at any rate, a mixer plant for asphalt, not necessarily a Willite plant, seemed to him to be desirable. This might seem like a wild idea, but on mature consideration the board must become convinced that it was not as wild as the idea of tearing up the streets when they needed repair and rebuilding them.

Mayor Crane said the old board had considered the project but had not taken any action.

Minor Matters.

A bill of J. Emory Mills for $300 for auditing the accounts of the board was ordered paid and referred to the auditing committee.

Superintendent Darrow reported that Morris Hymes had a sign attached to a trolley pole on North Front street which projected beyond the pole on each side, so that pedestrians brushed against it and automobiles were likely to strike it, and he recommended that it be removed.

Superintendent Darrow also approved the application for a sign for the new restaurant which is to be conducted in the Rider building on Wall street, which sign will extend above the first story.

The recommendations were approved and the board adjourned.

His Business Secret.

"Kindly inform the court how you managed to keep your credit open," was demanded during a trial for bankruptcy. "Certainly," replied the defendant, "but allow me to suggest that I impart this information behind closed doors. There are several of my competitors present, and I have no desire to teach them the secret."

WILLIAMS HIGH SCHOOL CONGRATULATES K. H. S.

Team Well Treated Here—Explains Poor Showing.

Williams High School,
Stamford, Conn.,
April 3, 1922.

Editor, The Kingston Daily Freeman.

I am taking the liberty to ask you to publish this letter as a means of our boys' appreciation of the good sportsmanship the Kingston boys and girls showed our team while in your city. Its a rare and great pleasure to meet such people who, (while not really understanding the facts), root for the team who is losing, (as they do not know them), never jeered or hooted our boys, who went down to the worst defeat we have suffered in five years on the court, but I'll say with lots of fighting spirit. The low ceiling spoiled our chances of victory, along with our two varsity and regular center being out. This takes no credit whatsoever from Kingston, they have a fine team, which I can say safely can compare with the best of them, and are better by 10 points than Newburgh, even if Newburgh did beat them. We all have our off nights, as it was plain to see we had ours the night we lost to your team. Our captain, Jack Dillon who leads all the schools in Connecticut Scholastic League with nearly 500 points for 31 games, was handicapped by the ceiling, more than the rest of our team as he is a high shooter as was proven Saturday afternoon in the Kingston Y. M. C. A. when he put in 12 or 15 from one-third the length of the floor while practising with a few Kingston High boys. His mind did not seem to be on the game, that with the clear, clever guarding of the Kingston team kept him down to the lowest number of field goals he ever scored.

We are satisfied with our treatment and want to thank every one concerned with and whom attended the game, also to Mr Hall who refereed the game. I assure you we will have better luck next year.

Wishing Kingston High the best of success in its career with athletic and scholastic, and hoping to see you all once again on the 29th of the month when we play baseball.

Respectfully yours,
MAURICE HOGAN,
Coach of W. H. S.

Odd Experience.

One day I went skating. The creek was about a mile away from home. After I had been skating for some time it began to snow very hard. I thought I would skate down the branch of the creek to a bridge just a few steps from the house. I skated and skated before finding I had gone down the wrong branch and was about three miles from home. It was a strange experience, I must say.—Exchange.

CONGRESS AWAITS OPERATORS' REPLY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, April 5. Congress settled today to await response from coal operators of the country to congressional overtures for a peace meeting with the striking miners.

Interest centered in the answer which operators in the central competitive field will make to the House labor committee's telegraphed invitation to them for a conference in Washington on April 10. Upon the response depends, according to congressional belief, either quick settlement or continuance of what promises to be a protracted shutdown.

Chairman Nolan, of the house labor committee, is optimistic that the conference invitation will be accepted.

Issuance of the conference invitation will determine whether the operators or miners are responsible for refusal to meet.

Inquiry by the house labor committee into the controversy was postponed until tomorrow when representatives of the operators of the central Pennsylvania will be heard.

ODDS AND ENDS.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Clinton Avenue Church will hold an all day quilting Thursday. A large attendance is desired.

A regular monthly meeting of the Daughters of Salome will be held at Mrs. La Tour's, 17 South Pine street, Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, April 5.—The stock market showed a strong tone at the opening today, good fractional gains being made in the leading issues. Davison Chemical continued in demand, moving up 1 point to 65. U. S. Steel rose ½ to 97¼ and Bethlehem Steel B. was ¼ higher at 74¾. Royal Dutch moved up ⅝ to 57¼, and Mexican Petroleum showed a gain of ⅝ at 123⅜. Cuba Cane Sugar showed a gain of ¾ at 16⅝, and Punta Allegra Sugar was 1¼ higher at 12. The railroad shares were fractionally higher.

The copper stocks became prominent in the late forenoon, these stocks being in urgent demand at advancing prices. Anaconda advanced 1⅛ to 52⅝, and Utah Copper rose 1¾ to 65¾. A generally strong tone prevailed in the rest of the list but some issues were under pressure. Bethlehem Steel B., after selling at 75, fell to 73¾. U. S. Steel, which opened at 97¼, reacted to 96⅝. Studebaker advanced to 116⅜. Royal Dutch advanced 1⅝ to 58¼.

The market turned buoyant in the afternoon, many stocks going through their previous highs of the year. Specialties came in for most attention. American Ice advancing nearly four points to 111; General Electric 2 points to 161 and Railway Steel Spring 2 points to 101. Among the standard issues, interest centered in the railway group where Norfolk & Western rose 1⅝ to a new high for the year of 104⅝. Reading improved over one point to 76. Chesapeake & Ohio and New York Central rose 1 point each.

The market closed today; government bonds unchanged; railway and other bonds strong.

TRAP NESTS HELP BREEDERS

Enable Poultrymen to Find Profitable Layers by Selecting Late Molting Hens.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Trap-nesting hens to find the most profitable layers does not appeal to the average farmer and back-yard poultryman as being practical. Besides the original cost of making the nests there is the extra labor required of looking after the layers. However some facts that have been learned as a result of using the trap nest may be applied in the improvement of the flock, say poultrymen of the United States Department of Agriculture. For instance, the trap nest has shown that the late molter is the most profitable bird in the flock. Now, with the use of the trap nest, a man may select the late molter and be sure that he is picking the cream of the flock. And it seems reasonable to believe that this characteristic breeds on from generation to generation.

The Lifted Shadow

By A. W. PEACH

(Copyright, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

At the summons Chester Stevens hurried to the home of Mary Kathan. Through anxious days he had been waiting for just that word, and now it had come.

Mr. Kathan met him at the door and motioned him into the library, where the gray-headed lawyer faced him a bit sadly.

"Chester, I have good news for you and perhaps bad news. Mary's case has proved unusual, but the physicians have told us what is probable to happen, and you must be ready to bear up just as the rest of us."

"I am ready, judge," the other answered quietly.

"Well, Mary is going to recover all right, but the brain fever resulting from the accident has left this result: she seems to have forgotten completely everything that took place for about a year before the accident. That memory may return, and it may not. Doctor McPherson says we know as much about it as he does."

"But she is better?" the younger man asked eagerly.

"Yes, she is better," the judge answered, an odd look in his eyes, "and tomorrow we are going to let you see her if she wants to."

"Wants to," the other repeated. "Why—" then a darkening fear spread in his eyes—"it was last year she learned to love me and became engaged to me. You mean that all that is—is—is wiped out?"

The judge nodded.

Stevens left the house in a daze, and not until he reached his own rooms did the unsettled world begin to sink back into place. In the quiet of his rooms he rearranged a changed world. His mind went back over those months of courtship when he had bent every means to one end—to win the love, freely given, of Judge Kathan's dark-eyed daughter.

Then in the rose garden of the fine estate she had given herself to him, and the next day, while out with her car, the accident had come that had thrown its black shadow over his heart and her home—a shadow that the great city surgeon had almost lifted. A forgotten year to her loved ones would not mean much—to him it meant everything.

He knew from the way the judge had mentioned the situation that in some way Mary had shown them that she had not remembered. One straw remained: he would see her the next day.

Mastering himself with difficulty that afternoon he stepped out on the screened porch, where, comfortable in a big chair, she was reading.

She lifted a small, pale, but beautiful face to his. Her dark eyes glowed a bit as she saw him, but the greeting was the old greeting of friendly days:

"Hello, Chet. Come to see the invalid—that is good of you."

He killed his intense desire to take her slight figure in his arms, to pet her and love her until she remembered; but he had been warned, and he chatted of just this and that—and nothing more.

When he left the judge put one hand on his shoulder. "Lad, we are all sorry. Win her again."

The farewell words thrilled him with their meaning. And they took on new significance when he saw the car of Arden Lamson stop before the house. A queer thought struck him: Suppose by some queer twist of fate she should now fall in love with Arden, his old and bitter rival, then some day while in love with Arden memory should return—

"I shall be mad if I keep on thinking what might happen. I shall plan for what I know is going to happen!" he said to himself grimly.

He set himself to woo her again. It was in his car that she took the first rides, but Arden's dark roadster was stationed often in front of the big Kathan mansion. Chester wondered if any one had told Arden of the situation, but he did not have the courage to ask.

As the weeks went on Mary grew stronger, but no event of the lost months returned. Once as she and Chester were strolling together along the river path she said whimsically: "Sometimes it seems as if I almost remember"—she looked up at Chester with dark, wistful eyes, and his heart stood still—"and then all goes. How queer!"

"Never mind the lost months, Mary, so long as the future ones are all right," he answered.

She nodded and slipped her arm through his—the old way of their comradeship, not lover, days, and walked on in silence.

At the side door of the house after the stroll she paused and laid a soft cheek against his shoulder. "Chet, you have been so good to me!" she said softly.

He started to seize her in his arms, then mastered himself. "You are worth being good to, Mary Kathan," he answered gently as he said good-night.

One of the places he sought to avoid was the rose garden, the haunting spot where she had surrendered to him. Memories there were too keen for him and dang ous for her; but one evening Judge Kathan said in answer to Chester's query: "Why, I think I saw her in the rose garden with Arden."

"Arden"— the name stung. Hesitating, then determined, Cheste swung down the dusky walk and met Arden returning. Arden's greeting was short. Surprised, Chester went on.

He saw Mary standing like a white rose, among a host of rivals. She was standing where he had kissed her in the old pledge of heart to heart. If memory would only return.

She saw him and came quietly to him. Her first words thrilled him as nothing on earth nor in the eternity beyond could thrill him, so it seemed.

"Chester, do you love me or do you pity me?" she said in a breathless way.

"Mary!" He caught her in his arms. "Do you remember? Love you—why I—" His lips on hers finished the sentence. "So you remember!"

She laughed shyly. "I remembered this all the time, dear—but you were so—so offish—I thought perhaps you didn't—were afraid you would get an invalid for a wife!"

"Offish! You knew all the time! well, I'll be— Come, kiss me again!"

REALLY NO WASTE PAPER

Printed Pages Are Converted Into an Almost Endless Variety of Highly Useful Products.

Did you ever wonder what became of the enormous amount of paper which is daily consumed by newspapers, magazines, correspondence and records? Not all of it goes into the furnace, says a writer in the Christian Science Monitor. In great office buildings, in business houses, in printing shops, a mountain of waste paper is saved, baled and sold. Churches and charitable institutions often make paper collections to raise funds. Some junk dealers buy old paper. Pulp mills have fleets of trucks out gathering baled paper from business places.

Take a look on your pantry shelf. Breakfast food, raisins, pancake flour, flavoring extracts, nearly everything is in a neat paper box. Paper cartons for shipping, shoe boxes, suit boxes, candy boxes, wall board, a thousand products are made from old papers.

When the old paper arrives at the mill the bundles and bales are opened and the contents are dumped into a big revolving screen where a great fan blows out the dust and dirt. Then a broad conveyer belt carries the loose pieces past sorters who separate the paper into several grades, ranging from linen bond to newsprint.

Humming-Bird's Nest.

Burroughs, in his charming little book, "Wake Robin," says it is an event in one's life to find a humming-bird's nest. The event happened to me without any effort on my part. Looking up from a seat in the grove, I saw a ruby throat drop down on its nest like a shining emerald from the clouds; it did not pause upon the edge of the nest, but dropped immediately upon it. The nest was situated upon an oak twig and was about the size of a black walnut, and from where I sat it looked more like an excrescence than a nest. It was situated in the fork of two twigs, and firmly glued at the base of the lower, but was not fastened to the upper twig.—Mary Treat in Home Studies in Nature.

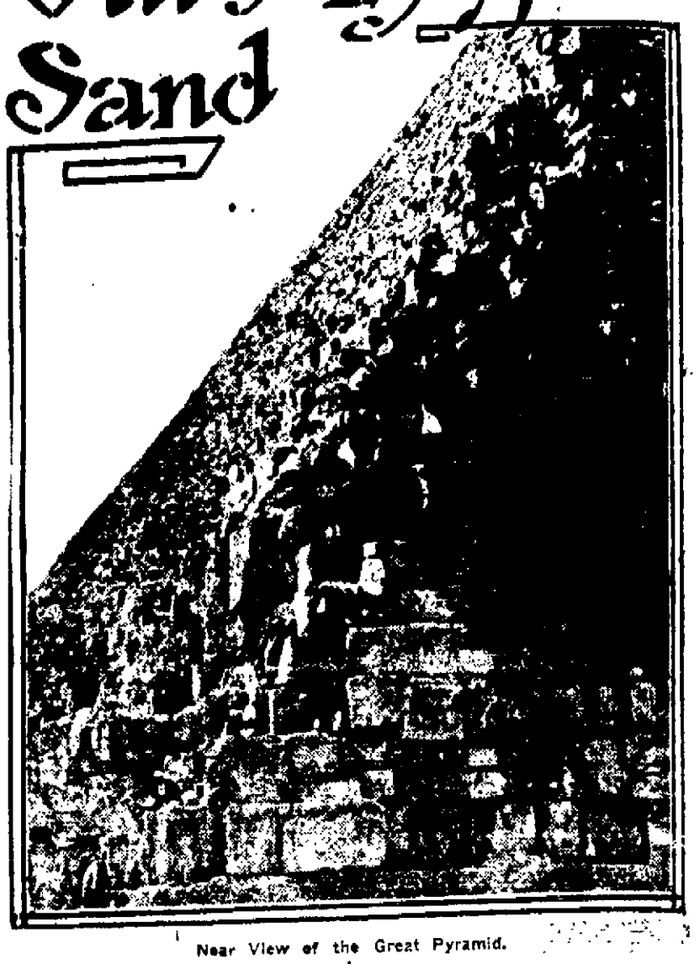

Tara an Ancient City.

Some nineteen centuries ago, before the Christian era, says a writer in the Christian Science Monitor, there was a royal residence at Tara, the first king to build a palace there being Slainge, who, according to ancient annals, was contemporary with Abraham. Slainge was of the Firbolg race, and therefore of either Greek or Oriental origin. Some say that Firbolg meant "bagman," and that the men who came to Tara nearly 4,000 years ago were so called because they had to carry clay in leathern bags to what are now the vineyards of Greece.

Rustless Plastic Steel Now.

Steel that is both rustless and plastic has been produced at Sheffield, England. It has perfect rust-resisting properties and can be stamped, punched, pressed or engraved cold. When bent cold to a radius equal to its thickness it shows no sign of fracture. It will retain a silver-bright polish in any atmosphere.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Out of Egypt's Sand

Near View of the Great Pyramid.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

Stanley journeyed thousands of miles to lay bare the secrets of Africa to the world; but in the northeastern corner of the same continent even more thrilling exploration has been in progress during the past few decades through a relatively few feet of sand. The excavators who with pick and shovel have been bringing to light the details of Egypt's ancient civilization and the everyday life of her people, where before only the barest outline of the nation's history was available, are as truly discoverers of unknown civilizations as far-faring Marco Polos or Pisarros.

For a long time Egypt was to the rest of the world little more than a sea of sand with a few dominant monuments—the pyramids, the Sphinx, the colossi of "Memnon"—to point to her past greatness. Relics of various dynasties existed side by side, their relations often unknown.

The names of many kings and some of their noblest exploits were known, but there was general ignorance in regard to the less exalted Egyptians, to the activities that made up the life of this mysterious nation beside the Nile four and perhaps five and six or more thousands of years ago. Grave robbers, whose activities extend back into the days long before the Ptolemies, had rifled many tombs and so made much of the early scientific excavations barren of results. And the early excavation of Egyptologists was itself a careless procedure aiming at the big goals and destroying and burying many small objects of incalculable value in the indications they might have given of manners and customs.

Recent exploration in Egypt has been a vastly different matter. Modern efficiency methods have been adapted to the delving for the buried secrets of the ancients, and now every cubic foot of sand about a promising site is combed or actually sifted that no broken fragment of pottery scrap of papyrus, or jeweled bauble may escape detection. In early days the most common method of disposing of the removed sand and debris was by means of basket brigades which dumped their loads nearby. Now light tramways are used and care is taken to haul the discarded material to a point where it is definitely known that nothing of value will be covered. Where formerly a "find" was a "find" and was assembled with all others, now any object partially uncovered is photographed in place frequently as the sand is removed, so that no possible significance of its position or relation to other objects will be overlooked; and before it is stored it is carefully tagged, numbered and card-indexed.

Getting Real Picture of Ancient Life.

These painstaking methods have fully justified themselves. Instead of having a confused mass of facts, many of them most interesting in themselves, but often perplexing, we are getting by degrees a complete, intelligible picture of Egyptian life over a period of thousands of years. Seemingly unimportant things help greatly to fill in the picture. One would hardly make the mistake of picturing the old Egyptians scratching matches to light the kitchen fire, but there was for long no true picture to take the place of fancy. None of the discovered hieroglyphics showed the making of fire, and it appeared to be entirely without religious significance. In recent years, however, one of the new school of excavators sifted from the sand a well-preserved fire-bow and drill and even a board with burnt holes, and the problem was solved.

Temporary towns besides the sites of great engineering projects are no new thing in the world. Cities for laborers were constructed for use while some of the pyramids were under construction. One such town has been completely uncovered and gives a cross-section of life under such conditions more than 4,000 years ago. The town was congested and had sections like the slums of today with the crowded dwellings opening on narrow alleys. There were some separate dwellings and some barrack-like structures presumably for unmarried workers. But even in the most humble houses evidences were found that their occupants lived on a higher plane than might have been supposed. Various manuscripts were found including a medical treatise and several wills. And in the separate dwellings were found such toys as tops and dolls and tiny boats to show that the pastimes of children of that remote time were not vastly different from those of today.

At the very border line between the prehistoric and the historic in Egypt, civilization, it has been found, had reached a considerable degree of development. The tombs of the first Egyptian kings, who lived anywhere from 5,000 to 7,000 years ago, are such as no barbarians could have erected—a fact which pushes the beginning of Egyptian civilization into a very dim past indeed. This was before the days of pyramid building when the tombs were underground structures.

Preserved in the Tombs.

The furniture of this distant period was by no means crude as one might assume it would have been. There were ebony chests skillfully inlaid with ivory, stools with ivory legs carved like the legs of bulls, vessels cut from alabaster and ewers of copper wrought with the cunning that only highly skilled craftsmen could have possessed. Daintily fashioned bracelets on the withered arms of the mummy of Egypt's first known queen add further to the record of the progress in the arts which Egypt had attained when we catch our first glimpse of it down the ages.

And there is a pretty little picture of the family relations of this ancient society. Besides the tomb of the first Egyptian king at Abydos is that of his daughter, and carved on her tomb the pet name by which her father knew her—"Sweetheart."

Even at that early date the court was socially highly organized.

Womanhood was sincerely respected in ancient Egypt and especially was this true of the mothers. "It might be called Egypt's substitute for the fifth commandment ignored the father. It was an injunction: 'Never forget what thy mother hath done for thee. She bare thee and nourished thee in all manner of ways. If thou forgettest her, she might blame thee; she might lift up her hands to God, and He would hear her complaint.' In many families it was the custom for titles and property to pass not to the eldest son but to the son of the eldest daughter. There was no 'mother-in-law joke' in Egypt. To the mind of the Egyptian it was the natural thing that his wife's relations should take a deeper interest in his affairs than his blood relations.

Much of the ability of those who live today to look into the past of Egypt, to see something of its flesh-and-blood life, and to understand somewhat of the joys and sorrows of its people, must be ascribed to the preserving powers of the desert air of that sandy land. The perfect condition of some of the objects recovered from tombs is marvelous. One of the best examples of this was the tomb of the noble parents of the great Queen Tyi. The discoverer of the large airy chamber that was provided as a home for these important personages declared that it seemed the room might have been shut up only a few weeks before. Beautifully carved and inlaid armchairs stood about, on them down-stuffed cushions that could have been sat upon without injury. In another part of the room were "twin beds" perfectly preserved. The most amazing discovery of all was that of a jar of honey, 3,300 years old, still a fluid and still having its recognizable odor.

DONOHUE GETS A SINECURE

Philip J. Donohue, who has been treasurer of Tammany Hall for many years, has been appointed by Mayor Hylan a commissioner of the New York Board of Water Supply, to succeed the late L. J. O'Reilly, who was the political lieutenant of William R. Hearst. The salary is $12,000 a year.

Donohue's post is regarded as a sinecure. The term is for the life of the board, and it is not expected the board will ever die. When the Ashokan project was completed there was talk of abolishing the board but it continued in office until the completion of the Gilboa project which is now under way.

Sometime ago Mayor Hylan appointed James P. Sinnott, one of the commissioners of the board of water supply at a salary of $12,000 a year. Mr. Sinnott is the father of John F. Sinnott, who is Mayor Hylan's son-in-law and private secretary.

Commissioner Donohue's appointment was announced in New York city on Tuesday and he immediately swore in and assumed office. This is the first public office he has ever held. About a year ago he sold out his interests in the Donohue Advertising Agency and became manager of the Wall street house of William J. Hoey.

Donohue has been treasurer of Tammany Hall since Charles F. Murphy has been boss of the organization. He is considered not only a close friend but a political confidant of Murphy.

ANOTHER WIFE OF GRAFTON APPEARS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, April 5.— Exactly seventeen days after he married Ellen Curley McIntyre in Youngstown last November 28, Joseph Donald Grafton, son of a millionaire Pittsburgh furniture manufacturer, married Peggy Davis, 17-year-old dancer in the "Follies" in New York.

This became known when both "wives" produced their marriage certificates here, following a dramatic visit by Mrs. Grafton the first to the sanitarium, where the second Mrs. Grafton lay critically ill.

The two Mrs. Graftons have not met. Mrs. Grafton the first told her story to "Peggy's mother because "Peggy" was too ill to be informed of the marriage mix-up.

Grafton met his Youngstown wife when she was a bookkeeper in his father's Pittsburgh office. They were married by B. J. Rosensteel, a Youngstown justice of the peace.

"Don Grafton is a bluebeard," says the first Mrs. Grafton, who believes he has still another wife living in a New England city.

"Every day he was on his honeymoon with Peggy, he wrote me the most loving letters. The third day after I married him, I read an advertisement in a weekly publication, in which a woman whose name was given, asked that Joseph Donald Grafton of Pittsburgh, husband of her daughter, be located, as his wife was dangerously ill."

At Benefit Game at Armory—Y. M. H. A. Wins Preliminary Game By Close Score.

Kanzer did the best work for the Y. M. H. A. caging two baskets in the last half of the first game at the Armory Tuesday night. It was very hard for the youngsters to size up the baskets used by the professionals and they missed many shots. The score at the end of the first half was two all, a field basket each. In the closing period the Young Hebrews scored 3 fields and the Company I boys succeeded in scoring two from the floor.

The big event of the evening followed immediately and the court was covered with local players, three on the Saugerties team and four on the Colonials.

Referee Rowe of Catskill handed out the decisions and he missed a great number of fouls which caused the game to become rough due to his poor eyesight or judgment.

John Spalt was the big man of the game, caging six two timers, a total of twelve points, equal to that of the opponents' score. Harold Johnson did the best work for the Papertown team, caging three from the floor.

The first half was very slow. Each player looking to shoot for a basket. The team work was lacking. The period wound up 12 all. During the second period the Saugerties representatives were kept scoreless while John Spalt caged two fields, Smith a foul and Lehr a field.

Dancing followed the game and was enjoyed by a large number. Balfe's orchestra supplied the music. About seven hundred were present and a good sum was realized for the fund for the disabled ex-service men's camp.

Giants Can't Catch Up.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Knoxville, Tenn., April 5.—In view of their crippled condition, it doesn't appear likely that the New York Giants will be able to overcome the lead of the Chicago White Sox, obtained in the series to date. The White Sox are leading five to three, making it necessary for the Giants to win four of the remaining five games to capture the series.

ROTARY HEARS TRENTON REPORT

Doings at District Conference Described at Weekly Luncheon—Captain Tobey a Guest.

Kingston Rotarians made a 96 per cent attendance record at their luncheon today and had the usual good time. Captain Tobey, of the state police, a former Kingstonian, now stationed at Troy, where he is a member of the Rotary Club, was a visitor. The delegates who attended the Third District Conference in Trenton, N. J., last week, reported as follows:

Strolling along State street, in Trenton, Thursday morning, I overheard part of an argument between a policeman and a man who had parked his automobile where parking was forbidden. The offender was explaining that he did not know of the prohibitory rule, as he was a stranger in the city. The policeman asked if he was a Rotarian. The man said he was. "Where's your badge?" asked the policeman. The man opened his overcoat and displayed a badge. "All right," said the policeman, "if you had worn your badge where I could see it I wouldn't have taken you in. Go on now and move along as soon as you can." Later, in the conference, explanation was made that a new traffic law had just gone into effect and was being strictly enforced, but that during the conference a Rotary badge was a sufficient excuse for any technical violation of the rules and would be respected by the police.

That is only one instance of the kind of reception Trenton gave the Rotarians of the Third District. The court house, city hall, state capitol and other public and private buildings were decorated handsomely and even the city jail had a "Welcome Rotarians" sign displayed. In the lobby of the Stacy-Trent hotel was a registration stand for those who wanted to go anywhere, at any time, by automobile. You left your order and Trenton did the rest, without charge, and gladly. At another stand those desiring to play golf were accorded like courtesy and only the inclement weather prevented our golfing expert from bringing home the championship belt. For the ladies the local committee of wives and daughters of Trenton Rotarians had an even more elaborate program, including a dinner at Princeton, luncheons in the old barracks and the country club, theater parties, etc.

A Rotary district conference is a conference, not a convention. The only legislative power exercised by the elected delegates is the selection of the man to be recommended for appointment as district governor. All other voting is merely an expression of opinion and all present may vote. Those in attendance confer, swap ideas and experiences, discuss and disagree. Out of this comes knowledge of and respect for the other fellow's opinions, even though we may not agree with him. We find that because we differ it does not follow that the other fellow is necessarily ignorant or dishonest. Sometimes we find that the ignorance shoe is on the other foot. Serious purpose does not, at least need not, make us serious at all times and deadly dull most of the time. Nor does having a good time cause us to forget or ignore the serious. Thus we exemplify King Solomon's lengthy catalogue of the timeliness of all things.

I will ask you to take my word for our having a good time every minute we were in Trenton and without going into further details, hit the high spots in the discussions and business at the eight sessions that were crowded into two days.

With the growth of Rotary many districts have become unwieldy, with too much work for a governor to do. One of the worst is the Third District. A proposed plan of redistricting has been reported that is very unsatisfactory to the Third District, which was cut it in two at Kingston, leaving us the jumping off place, cut off from the clubs to the north and hooking these clubs up with Canadian territory extending as far as Quebec. This new district would be worse than the Third now is. Much dissatisfaction was felt but no remedy suggested.

The selection of a district governor was also very much up in the air—many aspirants but none active or leading and the situation further complicated by the uncertainty regarding future district lines. The solution of either problem was dependent on the solution of the other. In this state of chaos the Man of the Hour appeared and by a series of interviews and caucuses of club presidents, settled the whole thing to the satisfaction of everybody, so that when the questions came before the conference, instead of a tedious debate and a struggle over the selection of a district governor, Harlan H. Horner of Albany was unanimously and by acclamation recommended for district governor and a request was unanimously adopted that the Third District be divided on state lines—New Jersey forming one district and eastern New York the other. This gives the new districts 24 and 23 clubs respectively. Need I say that the Man of the Hour, whose fertile brain conceived and whose diplomacy brought about this happy solution was none other than the president of the Kingston club.

Before this action was taken invitations for the next conference had been received from Newark and Lakewood, which leaves the New Jersey district well provided for, but the New York district liable to have to hold its conference in Lackawack or Sundown.

The program was arranged in a novel manner that gave excellent results. No "big guns" were imported for the occasion, to preach for an hour, but topics were selected and the best report sent in by a club on the topic under discussion was read in each case to open the discussion. Then it was a free-for-all, with a strict time limit on each speaker. In this way we found out what each club was doing in entertainment, fellowship, public affairs, boys' work, education, business methods, attendance, classification, etc. Eight sessions of discussion cannot be compressed into one report, but the chairmen of the various committees of our club will be furnished with a digest of the matters pertaining to the work of their committees, and if in the future you discover unexpected wisdom coming from these men, give the credit for it to the Trenton conference.

GUARD KILLED AT DISTILLERY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Baltimore, Md., April 5.—Harry Bloucher, 52, a guard at the Gwynnbrook Distillery near Pikesville, Baltimore county, in which there is stored 12,000 barrels of whiskey, was shot and almost instantly killed at the plant early today by a man dressed partly in the uniform of an aviator and posing as an internal revenue officer.

The murderer, who is believed by the police, to have been the advance guard of a band of liquor thieves, approached the distillery and as Bloucher opened the door he was shot down. As Bloucher fell, he fired his own revolver at the assailant, and it is believed that the shot took effect as Marshal of Police Stansbury, of Baltimore county while on his way to the distillery, noticed a man in what is thought to be the murder car, apparently being supported by another man in the rear seat of the machine.

BIG BENEFIT PLANNED FOR ROSE COGHLAN

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, April 5—Rose Coghlan, for half a century one of the brightest stars in American and European theatricals, today is playing a role in a real life drama stranger than any she ever interpreted back of the footlights.

Virtually destitute and with her memory so defective that she cannot remember her "lines" in recent roles she has attempted, Miss Coghlan is now practically dependent on the generosity of old friends among theatrical people.

Once one of the foremost exponents of histrionic art in America and in Scotland, where she began her career many years ago, and only last year a star in "Debura," Miss Coghlan now shares a modest apartment with her negro maid Mary Lake. Constantly with her is Mrs. Richard Pitman, actress and old friend.

Otto Kahn and David Belasco are among notable theatrical people who have rallied to her aid. A big benefit is planned for her.

Other championship matches included S. M. Newton of Richmond vs. Harold Weber of Toledo; F. K. Robeson of Rochester vs. Edward Lowery of Norfolk; Mike Thomas of Nashville vs. F. C. Newton of Brookline; Arthur Yates of Rochester vs. Francis T. Keating of Pinehurst; Henry Topping of Greenwich vs. Captain A. T. Roberts of Scotland and E. L. Scofield of Pinehurst vs. Joseph Wells of East Liverpool.

RADEK DOESN'T HOPE FOR MUCH AT GENOA

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Berlin, April 5—Karl Radek, chief foreign emissary of the Moscow soviet government, does not expect much from the Genoa economic conference, acording to an interview printed by the Lokal Anzeiger today.

Asked what he expected from the conference, Radek was quoted as saying:

"I do not anticipate anything. The Genoa conference will be a big picnic where the people tread upon each other's feet.

"America is rich but Uncle Sam is taking precious care not to appear at Genoa where his pockets might be emptied."

Four Survive in Tennis Matches.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, April 5.—Four survivors of the field in the national amateur court tennis championship entered the semi-final round today. They are C. Suydam Cutting and Charles E. Sands in the upper half, and Fulton Cutting and Hewitt Morgan in the lower half. The ultimate winner will meet Jay Gould, the perennial champion, in the challenge round.

Yankees Still in Slump.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Bristol, Tenn., April 5.—Still in the throes of a slump the New York Yankees prepared today to meet the Brooklyn Dodgers in another game of their series. Manager Huggins, in an attempt to break the losing streak, signified his intention of starting Bob Shawkey on the mound. Shawkey, to date, has shown better form than any of the other Yankee pitchers.

New Yorkers Toting Pistols.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, April 5.—New York today is an armed city. Private citizens are carrying double the number of deadly weapons that can be mustered by the active members of the police force when at full strength. Statistics on pistol permits, given out by the police department, show that 25,000 permits have been issued since January 1.
